The Emirates Labour Market Award is held under the patronage of His Highness Sheikh Mansour bin Zayed Al Nahyan, Vice President, Deputy Prime Minister and Chairman of Presidential Court, and has generated notable interest from local, regional and international media. This interest in the award stems from it being a government initiative to celebrate efforts of pioneering private-sector companies and outstanding workers, in addition to highlighting successful practices in various sectors of the UAE labour market.

Award categories

The first edition of the award included three main categories, which are:

Companies Category, which aims to acknowledge leading companies that have continually managed employment relationships in an exceptional manner.

Business Services Partners Category, including domestic worker recruitment offices, recruitment agencies, and business service centres – that support the development of leading labour market practices.

The Workforce Category, targets outstanding workers who have contributed to the service and development of the UAE UAE labour market.

Across its main and sub-categories, the award is rooted in clear competitive criteria covering various aspects that affect the labour market, including recruitment and empowerment, attracting talent, occupational health and safety, labour relations and wages, facilities and work environment, readiness for the future, encouragement and motivation, achievement, creativity and innovation, lifelong learning, and social responsibility.
